

THE GREAT ADVENTURE OF NERD MAN
By: Wesley Taylor

Let me introduce you to my friend Frac A. Shun. Frac was a real nerd! He was a whiz in all types of Math. People thought he was weird because of his goofy clothes. Frac was still waiting for a growth spurt so he wouldn't look so puny.

Frac was in my third grade class at La Brawn Academy. Of course his favorite class was math because he made straight A's. His worst class was gym. He made straight F's because of his poor athletic ability. Kids in class laughed and giggled at him because he was such a nerd.

Every night he dreams of himself as a super hero named Nerd Man with his trusty sidekick Mega Multiply conquering all the evil in the world. He battles wrong math facts, improper fractions and the dreaded mixed numbers! He and Mega Multiply change the evil Math Thingies into the answers teachers love!

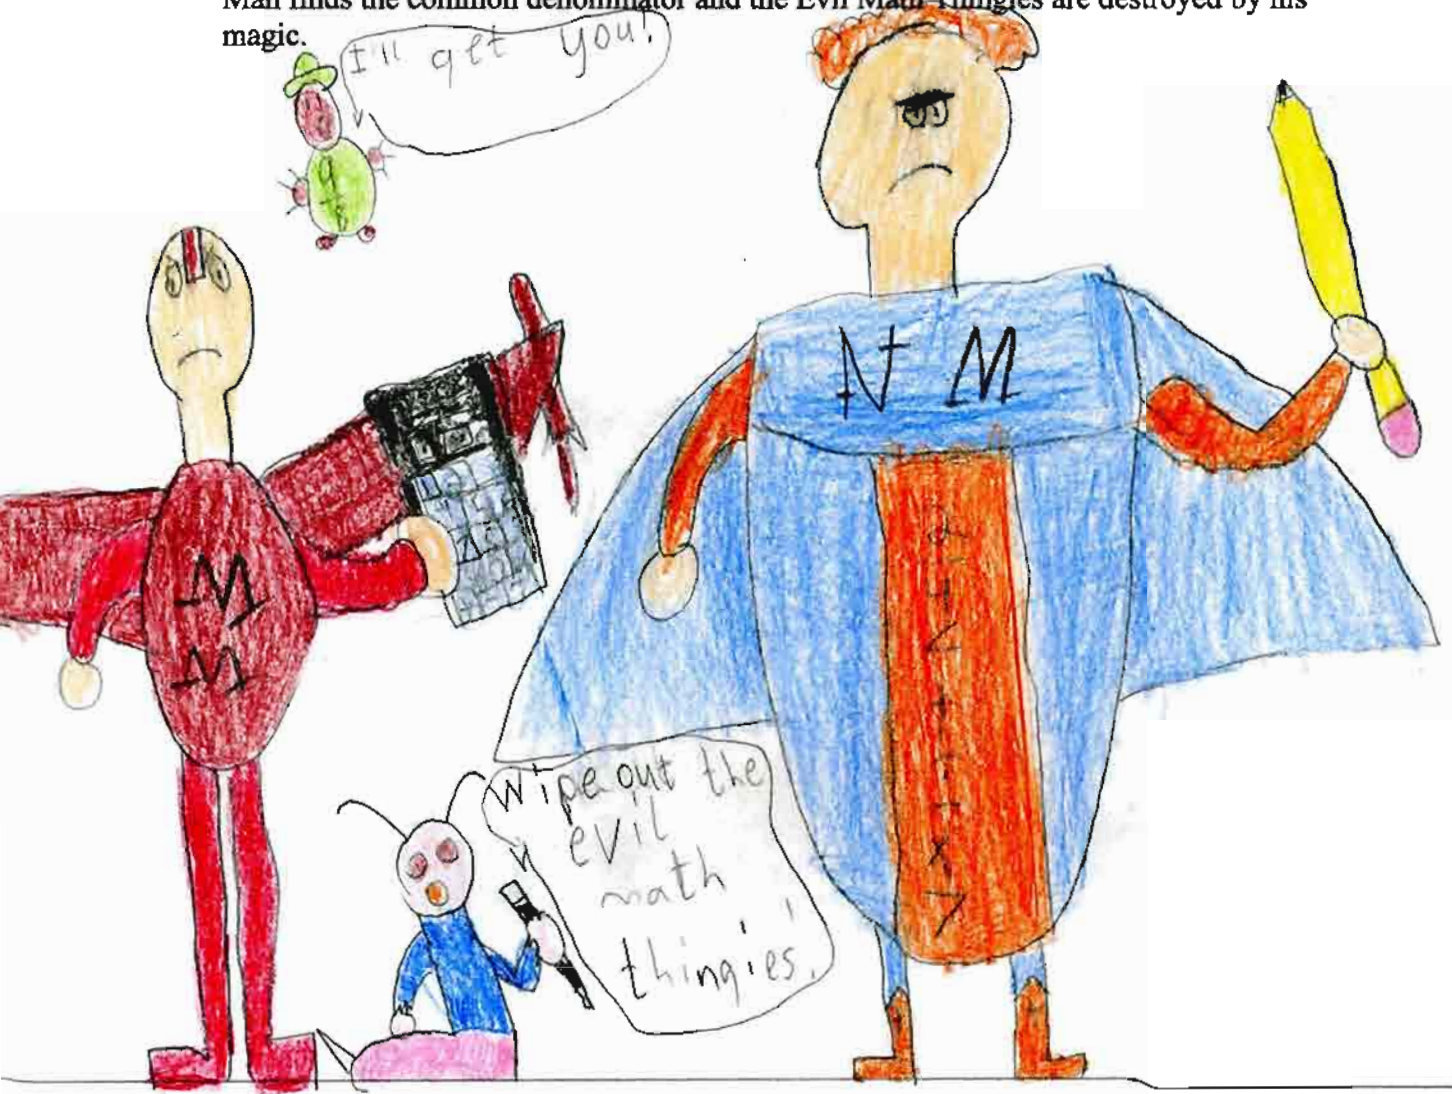

One rainy night, he sets out to find his friend the Common Denominator, but the Evil Math Thingies begin to attack. The Evil Math Thingies begin shooting their ray guns that start filling his head with improper math facts.

Nerd Man and Mega Multiply draw a giant calculator and pencil to correct them. Nerd Man finds the common denominator and the Evil Math Thingies are destroyed by his magic.

Frac A. Shun's dream world is now safe from the Evil Math Thingies! Thanks to Nerd Man, Mega Multiply, and a little help from the Common Denominator. Will this be the end of Nerd Man and Mega Multiply? Read the sequel, if I write one.

